Reserve Technical Questions 4:

I don't know of any other protocols, but the SSSA one in particular has been well accepted in previous work.

Reserve Technical Questions 8:

The number of replicates needed may depend a lot on the expected variability, as well as whether the study sites will be assumed to be similar or whether observed differences (soil, climate, etc.) would be accounted for in the modelling.

The number of replicates needed (and thus, the accuracy of estimates) may also depend on the allowance of variability within the protocol itself.
